Owl in the Tree

Tune: Skip to My Lou

Owl in the tree says who, who, who.
Owl in the tree says who, who, who.
Owl in the tree says who, who, who.
Who, who, who are you?

Five Little Owls

Five little owls on a moonlit night,
up on a tree branch holding on tight!

1, 2, 3, 4, 5! Five little owls on a moonlit night, up on a tree branch holding on tight, shouting out "who, who, who!"
One flew away and then there were four!

1, 2, 3, 4! Four little owls on a moonlit night, up on a tree branch holding on tight, shouting out "who, who, who!"
One flew away and then there were three!

Continue until one owl is left.

1! One little owl on a moonlit night, up on a tree branch, holding on tight, shouting out "who, who, who!"
He flew away and then there were none!

Early Literacy Tip

Children's books have about thirty-one rare or unusual words per thousand words. That's three times more than in conversation and twenty-five percent more than we hear on TV shows! The more of these rare words children know, the easier it will be when it comes time for school. This is just one more great reason to read books with children!
